

Backup using rsync

To backup important data is something crucial and many people tend to ignore it. A really nice option on Linux is to use the rsync program for remote backups and automate it via two simple scripts.